

STAGE TO PAGE

ARE YOU A WRITER?

Belong to a writers group? Enrolled in a creative writing or publishing program?

Philadelphia Theatre Company wants your thoughts on Sex with Strangers, a play by House of Cards staff writer, Laura Eason!

HOW IT WORKS

See the play. Write an essay.
Get two free tickets to our next show.

Bring six or more friends and get discount rates on tickets to one of the most produced plays of the year. Write a 500-word essay about a topic of your choice related to the show and not only will we publish it on our blog and share it on social media #STAGETOPAGEPTC – we'll give you two free tickets to a preview performance of our next show, Hillary and Clinton!

ABOUT THE SHOW

Olivia, a novelist in her late thirties, turned to teaching after her first book was botched by the publisher. Secretly, a completed second novel is sitting unread. Ethan, a savvy young author notorious for his exhibitionist and erotic blog-turned-book-turned-film, is itching to break free from the character he created. When the two become snowed in together at a remote bed-and-breakfast, a fiery relationship emerges in this clever comedy-drama examining the cult of online personality.

Sex with Strangers runs April 8 through May 8 at the Suzanne Roberts Theatre (480 South Broad Street, Philadelphia, PA 19146).

GET IN TOUCH

For details about #STAGETOPAGEPTC and tickets, contact Sales Director Carol Flannery:
215.985.0420 x104
cflannery@philadelphiatheatrecompany.org

PHILADELPHIA THEATRE COMPANY

at the

Suzanne Roberts Theatre